“The Correctional System and the Integration of Marginal Populations: 1979-2004.” (with William J. Sabol) Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, St. Louis, MO, November 14, 2008

This presentation assessed the effects of structural changes in society to account for the new equilibrium in incarcerated populations.

“The Changing Face of Workplace Safety, 1983 to 2004.” (with Bonnie Fisher) Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, St. Louis, MO, November 13, 2008

Paper assessed changes in the level and nature of workplace violence and workplace safety from 1983 to 2004.

”The Criminal Involvement of Military Veterans: Estimating the extent and exploring explanations” (with Kristin Englander, Tasha Youstin and Richard Culp) Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, St. Louis, MO, November 12, 2008

This presentation described preliminary results of a study of the criminal involvement of military veterans between 1973 and 2004 using the Survey of Inmates and the Current Population Survey.

“Review of the Programs of the Bureau of Justice Statistics.” Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, St. Louis, MO, November 12, 2008. This presentation summarized the report of the National Academy of Science Panel on the Bureau of Justice Statistics with emphasis on the National Crime Victimization Survey. The subject matter of this talk can be found in Surveying Crime: Options for Conducting the National Crime Victimization Survey. Edited by Robert Groves and Daniel Cork. Washington, DC National Academy of Sciences (2008)

“Cross-national Research and the Declining Significance of the Nation State.” Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, St. Louis, MO, November 12, 2008. This presentation argued that there was so much within country variation in crime and criminal justice responses to crime that nation level studies could tell us little of use with regard to causes of crime and the effectiveness of responses to same.

“Evaluating the Index Crime Classification and Searching for Alternatives” (with Jane Grabias). Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Atlanta, Georgia, November 12, 2007. Paper presented results from analyses of the British Crime Survey suggesting that the Uniform Crime Classification crime classes were based on faulty assumptions about the relative moral repugnance of certain crimes and the internal homogeneity of these crime classes.

“Crime, Coercion and Community: Life after an NIJ grant.” (with William J. Sabol and Avinish Bhati). Presentation at the National Institute of Justice. Washington, DC, September 14, 2007. This presentation was invited by the NIJ staff and described the further analyses of the data that occurred since the completion of the grant. It centered on problems in estimating the effects of imprisonment on crime at the neighborhood level.

“Assessing the Impact of Social Research on Criminal Justice Policy.” Presentation at the Annual Meeting of the Society for the Study of Social Problems. New York. August 11, 2007. I have no recollection of the substance of this presentation.

Discussant, Understanding Crime Trends. Panel at the American Academy for the Advancement of Sciences, San Francisco, February 16, 2007. Commented on Jeff Fagan’s paper on neighborhood crime trends.

“Addressing the Challenge of Costs and Error in Victimization Surveys: The Potential of New Technologies and Methods.”(with David Cantor) Paper presented at The Meeting on the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the British Crime Survey. London, October 18, 2006. Paper identified problems facing victimization surveys—and specifically non-response and changes in the telephone industry—and suggested alternative designs that may ameliorate these problems. See publication number 33 above.

“Testing the Applicability of Ecological Theories of Crime Cross-nationally.” Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Los Angeles CA, November 3, 2006. This paper compared the effects of the social organization of communities on the distribution of crime in Baltimore and Belo Horizonte, Brazil. Neighborhood effects were quite different in Brazil.

“The Effects of Incarceration on Crime in Urban Neighborhoods: Punishing Peter to Protect Paul.” (with Avinash Bhati and William J. Sabol) Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Los Angeles CA, November 3, 2006. Examined the effects of social and spatial lags in incarceration across neighborhoods on crime in those areas. Spatial lags were not significant but social lags were.

“Implications of Opportunity Theory for Understanding and Controlling Terrorism.” Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Toronto, Canada, November 17, 2005. Paper argues that opportunity theory and the empirical methods used to build opportunity theory will not be useful for increasing our knowledge of terrorist acts due to the rare event nature of terrorist acts.

“Incarceration and Crime in Urban Neighborhoods:” (with William J. Sabol and Avinish Bhati) Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Toronto, Canada, November 19, 2005. Presentation assesses the effects of instrumental variable techniques on modeling the effects of incarceration on crime in urban neighborhoods.

"Using Citizen Surveys to Produce Information on the Police: The Present and Potential Uses of the National Crime Victimization Survey." Paper Presented at the National Research Council's Committee to Review Research on Police Policy and Practices Data Collection Workshop. Washington, DC April 11, 2002. Paper outlining the potential of victimization surveys to produce information useful for evaluating the police. See publication 14 above.

"Trends in Juvenile Offending: The Victims Perspective." Paper presented at the Annual Meeting of the American Society of Criminology, Atlanta November 8, 2001. Paper examines trends in juvenile offending using the reports of victims in the NCVS. Unlike official statistics these reports are not affected by the actions of the police. The trends show a reasonable consistency with the trends from official data. See publication 44 above.

“Methodological Issues in Cross-national Comparisons of Crime and Punishment.” Presentation at the Cross-national Comparison of Crime Trends Conference. Cambridge University, Cambridge England, June 30, 2001. Critiqued the methodology used to compare crime and punishment across Europe and the US.

“The Effects of Non-uniformities in Design on Comparisons of Aggregate Estimates of Victimization in the ICVS.” Paper presented at the International Crime Victimization Workshop, Netherlands Institute for the study of Criminology and Law Enforcement, Leiden University, Leiden, The Netherlands, June 21, 2001 Paper estimated effects of differences in design, e.g. mode, response rates, etc. on nation level estimates of crime in the ICVS. See publication 41 above.

“Qualitative Differences Among Repeat Victims.” (with Mike Planty) Presentation at the Annual Meeting of the American Society of Criminology, San Francisco November 15-16, 2000. Presentation examined the difference in characteristics between persons who were not victimized and those victimized once, 2-5 time and very high volume victims. The attributes that distinguished the singly victimized from non-victims were the same attributes that distinguished the non-victims from the highly victimized except the effects were stronger. See publication 70 above.

“The Role of Individual, Household and Areal Characteristics in Domestic Violence.” (with Brian Wiersema) Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Statistical Association Meetings, Indianapolis, IN August 13, 2000. This presentation used the area-identified NCVS to estimate the effects of the social organization of areas on the incidence of domestic violence. See publication 44 above.

Discussant, Meeting of the National Research Council’s Committee on Social Statistics and the Committee on Law and Justice on the Measurement of Crime , Woods hole, MA July 24, 2000. I commented on Richard McCleary’s paper on the effects of missing data on estimates from surveys of rare events.

“Prison Use and Social Control.” (with Bill Sabol) Presentation at the Plenary Session of the National Institute of Justice’s Annual Research and Evaluation Conference July 17, 2000. This presentation reviewed the state of knowledge concerning the crime reduction and collateral damage effects of incarceration. See publication 46 above.

“Longitudinal Studies of What Happened with the “Get Tough” Policy.” Paper Presented at the Annual Meeting of the National Council on Family Relations, Irvine California, November 13, 1999. This presentation described the likelihood of collateral damage due to increases in use of incarceration. It was based on data in publication 50 above.

“Crime, Coercion and Community: The Effects of Arrest Policies on the Social Organization of Community.” (with Bill Sabol) Paper presented at the National Institute of Justice’s Annual Research and Evaluation Conference, July 21, 1999. We presented the results of arrests in local neighborhoods on crime and collective efficacy in those areas.

“Partner Abuse: Crime Against Women and Self Report Victimization Surveys.” Presentation at the NIJ Conference on Crime Against Women. Ann Arbor, Michigan, June 21, 1999. I believe that this presentation outlined the methodological problems in assessing this crime with self report surveys and presented data on high volume repeat domestic violence from the NCVS.

“A Comparative Assessment of the Criminal Involvement Among Immigrants and Natives Across Seven Nations.”(With Rita J. Simon) Paper presented at the 50th Annual Meeting of the American Society of Criminology, Washington, D.C. November 13, 1998.

“Housing Unit and Areal Effects on Residential Burglary Victimization.” (With Brian Wiersema and Richard Titus.) Paper presented at the 50th Annual Meeting of the American Society of Criminology, Washington, D.C. November 12, 1998.

“Unintended Consequences of Incarceration: More Female Headed Households and Higher Unemployment.” Paper presented at the Midwest Regional Seminar of the Council of State Legislators, Chicago, IL , March 8, 1998.(With Bill Sabol) This presentation described the preliminary results from an analysis using county level data on incarceration to predict family formation for African Americans and non-African Americans.

“Creating the National Institutes of Justice: A New Structure for Building and Using Knowledge About Crime and Its Effective Prevention.” (with Barbara Allen-Hagan) Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology. San Diego CA November 20, 1997. I have no recollection of the content of this presentation and no records describing its content.

‘Modeling Repeat Burglary Victimization with the NCVS: Giving Content to Heterogeneity and State Dependence.’ (With Michael Berbaum) Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology. San Diego CA November 18, 1997. This presentation described models of burglary victimization using fixed and time varying features of the household including prior burglary victimization. See publication 70.

“Getting Tough on Crime: Impacts of Sentencing Reforms.” (With William J. Sabol) Paper presented at the First Tuesday Luncheon at the Urban Institute, November 6, 1997. Paper assessed the effects of sentencing reform on crime, the composition of prison populations and collateral damage to families and communities from which inmates come.

“Assessing Alternative Estimators of Length of Stay for Juvenile Offenders.” Paper presented at the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, Annual Meeting of Participants in the Juveniles Taken Into Custody Program, San Francisco CA October 20, 1997. We estimated length of stay for juvenile offenders using exiting cohorts and modeled data taking account of right censoring. When right censoring is taken into account, estimates of length of stay are longer.

"Using the NCVS micro-data Longitudinally to Explore Issues Pertinent to Victimization and Its Consequences." (with Michael Berbaum) Paper presented at the National Institute of Justice Workshop on Uses of Longitudinal Data, Ann Arbor, MI June 23, 1997. Paper presents the effects of prior burglary on subsequent burglary using the NCVS linked across interviews. See publication 70 above.

“Who are the Victims?” Presentation at the Victim Needs Strategic Planning Meeting. National Institute of Justice and Office of Victims of Crime, Washington, D.C. April 9, 1997. This presentation described the basic socio-demographic characteristics of victims using the NCVS data.

"Repeat Burglary Victimization." (With Richard Titus) Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Chicago, IL, November 21, 1996. This presentation assessed the effect of victim survey design on estimates of the volume and nature of repeat victimization using the NCVS and the BCS. See publication 70 above.

"Exploring the Effects of Changes in Design on the Analytical Uses of the NCVS Data."(with David Cantor)Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Chicago, IL, November 20, 1996. This presentation compared estimates of risk of various types of crime using data from the old and new design in the NCVS to determine the effects of design changes on models of risk. See publication 10 above.

"The Implications of Measurement Error in Crime Statistics for Understanding Violence Across Settings." Presentation at the National Institute of Justice Workshop on Violence Across Settings, ICPSR, Ann Arbor, Michigan. June 24, 1996. I have no recollection of the content of this presentation.

"An Examination of the Effects of Survey Design on Estimates of Rape and Sexual Assault from Self-Report Surveys." Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology. Boston MA, November 17, 1995. This presentation explained why estimates of rape victimization differed across several major surveys. See publication 20 above.

Co-convenor. Roundtable on Repeat Victimization: Theoretical Importance, Policy Relevance and Research Priorities and Methods. Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Boston MA, November 15, 1995. This was an informal discussion of methods for estimating and analyzing repeat victimization.

"Understanding Differences in Estimates of the Incidence and Prevalence of Rape and Sexual Assault Using Self-report Survey Data." Presentation at the National Conference of the Woman's Freedom Network. Washington, D.C. October 15, 1995. This presentation explained why estimates of rape victimization differed across several major surveys. See publication 20 above.

"The Decomposition and Graphical Analysis of Crime and Sanctions Data." (with Brian Forst) Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Miami, Florida. November 11, 1994. This presentation showed how graphical presentation of the results of multi-variate models facilitated their interpretation. See publication 18.

"Testing Opportunity Theories of Robbery Using a Case-control Design." (with David Cantor and Michael Maxfield) Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Miami, Florida. November 10, 1994. This presentation presented the result of a feasibility test of conducting a case-control design to investigate the factors affecting risk of robbery in Baltimore County.

"Economic Marginality, Race and Imprisonment: A Comparison of Alternative Measures of Marginality." (with William J. Sabol) Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Miami, Florida. November 9, 1994. This paper compared measures of poverty and measures of underclass status generated from surveys of inmates.

"Routine Activities and Victimization Risk: The Importance of Theory Building in a Practical World." Paper delivered at the Conference of The Council on Architectural Research, Secure and Livable Communities: Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design, Washington, D.C. December 10, 1993. Paper argued for building a general theory of victimization risk by first estimating models separately for each activity domain—work, home, school, and leisure. See publications 29 and 60.

"Opportunity Theory and Commercial Crime: Implications from Models of Non-commercial Crime." Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Phoenix, Arizona. October 27, 1993. This presentation described analyses of data from the Commercial Crime Surveys to assess the effects of opportunity reduction practices to lower risk of victimization.

"The Prevalence of Incarceration Revisited." Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Phoenix, Arizona. October 28, 1993. I believe this addressed the issue of whether the growth in the prison population in the early 1980s was due to the growth in the underclass made popular in William Julius Wilson's work.

"Changes in the Underclass/Imprisonment Policy and Drug Offenses." (with William J. Sabol) Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Phoenix, Arizona. October 29, 1993. I believe this addressed the issue of whether the growth in the prison population in the early 1980s was due to the growth in the underclass made popular in William Julius Wilson's work. Particular attention was given to the role of sentences for drug crimes.

Discussant, Panel on Exploring Incidence and Etiological Issues of Crime-- NCVS Survey, The Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Phoenix, Arizona. October 29, 1993. I introduced speakers but made no comments due to time limitations.

"Social Class and the Effects of Criminal Opportunities on Non-commercial Robbery Victimization." (with David Cantor) Paper presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Phoenix, Arizona. October 30, 1993. I have no recollection of this presentation.

"Secondary Analysis of International Crime Survey Data." International Conference on Understanding Crime: Experiences of Crime and Crime Control. United Nations Inter-regional Crime and Justice Research Institute. Rome, ITALY, November 18, 1992. This paper suggested ways that the ICVS data could be used for purposes other than rate estimation. See publication 58.

"Macro-social Changes and Their Implications for Prison Reform: The Underclass and the Composition of Prison Populations." (with William J. Sabol) Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, New Orleans, November 6, 1992. We tested the assertion that the growth in the underclass accounted for the increase in the prison population. It did not.

"Routine Activity and Victimization Risk: The Implications of Activity-specific Risk Rates Using Duration in the Denominator." Presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, New Orleans, November 4, 1992. This presentation used time budget surveys in combination with the NCVS to compute rates of crime by time in activity across class groups. See publication 60 above.

"Should Sentencing Policy Rely Upon Public Assessments of Seriousness." (with Deirdre Golash) Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of The Law and Society Association, Philadelphia, PA May 30, 1992. Used philosophical arguments to narrow the range of acceptable rationales for sentencing that could be investigated using empirical information and then assessed the ability of seriousness surveys to provide that information. See publication 21 and 48 above.

"Punishment Policy and Social Control: Incarceration and the Growth of the Underclass 1970-1990." (with William J. Sabol) Paper presented at the meetings of the Academe of Criminal Justice Sciences, Pittsburgh, PA, March 14, 1992. We tested the assertion that the growth in the underclass accounted for the increase in the prison population.

"Toward an Explanation of Cross-national Differences in Punishment Practices." Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, San Francisco, November 23, 1991. Presentation compared levels of prison use across industrialized democracies controlling for the volume and mix of crime. See publication 28.

"Responses to Violence: A Cross-national Perspective." Paper Presented at the Colloquium on Violence, Northern Illinois University, October 26, 1991

"Status Inequality and Property Crime: A Cross-national Time-series Analysis." Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of the Law and Society Association, Amsterdam, Netherlands, June 27, 1991. This presentation addressed the question of why cross-national studies of the relationship between crime and inequality had inconsistent results. See publication 17 above.

"Measuring Change with the National Crime Survey." (with David Cantor) Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology Meetings, Baltimore Maryland, November 9, 1990. I have no recollection of this presentation.

"Models of Property Victimization: Contrasting Findings from Different Methods." Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of the American Society of Criminology Meetings, Baltimore Maryland, November 8, 1990. I have no records or recollection of this presentation.

"Current Research on Victims Using Self Report Surveys." Presentation at the CJAIN Workshop, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, July 24, 1990. Described most common analytical uses of the NCVS.

"Using Supplements to the National Crime Survey: The VRS Experience." Presentation at the Workshop on the Design and Use of the National Crime Survey, University of Maryland, College Park, Md., July 23, 1990. Described the technical problems inherent in use of VRS.

"A Cross national Comparison of the Length of Sentences for Serious crimes." Paper Presented at the Annual Meeting of the Academe of Criminal Justice Sciences, Denver, Colorado, March 14, 1990. This paper compared estimates of sentence length across industrialized democracies using exiting cohorts and life tables. See publication 22 above.

"Why Annual Change Estimates in the National Crime Survey and the Uniform Crime Reports Are Occasionally Divergent." Invited presentation at the Federal Bureau of Investigation, February 7, 1990. This presentation examined the trends in crime from the two major series and tried to explain their divergence. See publication 1 above.

"Multi-level Models of Property Victimization at Home: Implications for Opportunity Theory." (with David Cantor) Paper Presented at the American Society of Criminology Meetings, Reno, Nevada, November 9, 1989. This presentation distinguished the effects of neighborhood and household characteristics on the risk of burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft. See publication 24 above.

"Using the NCS and UCR in Trend Analyses" Presentation at the CJAIN Workshop, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, August 11, 1989. This presentation identified the changes and method in the NCVS time series since 1973.

"Offense Seriousness Scaling: The Limitations of Surveys and Scenarios." (with Mona J. E. Danner) Paper Presented at the Annual Meetings of the Academe of Criminal Justice Sciences, Washington, D. C., March 30, 1989. This presentation critiqued the scenario method for assessing crime seriousness. See publication 23 above.

"Enlightenment or Engineering: The Appropriate Role of Quantitative Sociology", Presentation at the Annual Meetings of the Eastern Sociological Association, Baltimore, March 17, 1989. I have no recollection of this presentation.

"Alternative Strategies for Testing Routine Activity Theory: An Evaluation of Domain-Specific Models", Paper Presented at the American Society of Criminology Meetings, Chicago, IL. November 11, 1988. This presentation argued for the advantage of differentiating the dependent variable in trying to build general models of victimization risk. It argued for specifying models by activity domain. See publication 29.

"Empirical Tests of Opportunity Theories of Victimization Risk" Presentation at the National Institute of Justice Cluster Conference on Victimization, Charleston, South Carolina October 6, 1988. This presentation describes research on the risk of specific crimes using data from the Victim Risk Supplement to the NCVS. See publication 71 above.

"The Victim Risk Supplement to the National Crime Survey." Presentation at the CJAIN Workshop, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI, August 4, 1988. Described the potential uses of VRS.

"Recommendations for Improvements in National Statistics on Delinquency, Drug Use and Child Victimization", Presentation at the Interagency Conference on Child and Family Statistics, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md. April 29, 1988. Summary of comments made by a panel of experts on potential enhancements to existing data on juveniles.

"Contextual and Individual Determinants of Victim Risk". (with David Cantor) Paper presented at the American Society of Criminology Meetings. Montreal, November 12, 1987. Presented ways of using the sample design of the NCVS to produce block level data on households and respondents in the survey. Fuller discussion can be found in publication 24 above.

"Cross-national Comparisons of Prison Use and Their Implications for Sentencing Policy". Presentation at the National Conference on Punishment for Criminal Offenses. University of Michigan, November 9, 1987. Presentation compared levels of prison use across industrialized democracies controlling for the volume and mix of crime. See publication 28.

"Crime Classifications and Victimization Surveys: The Need for Alternatives to the Uniform Crime Report's Index Crimes". Paper presented at the Workshop on the Design and Use of the National Crime Survey, University of Maryland, College Park, Md., July 17, 1987. Used the attributes of crimes presented in the NCVS and cluster analysis to identify alternative crime classifications that could be used in crime reporting.

Discussant, "The National Crime Survey Redesign: A Summary Report", Paper presented by Bruce Taylor at the Washington Statistical Association Meetings, April 27, 1987 Described the major recommendations of the NCS Redesign. See publication 72 above.

"The Hazards of Doing Cross-national Research", Paper Presented at the Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Atlanta, Georgia, October 29, 1986. Identified the major methodological issues in doing cross-national comparisons of crime and punishment. See publication 28 above.

"Routine Activity and Victimization at Work", Paper presented at the Meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Atlanta, Georgia, October 29, 1986. Examined the risk of victimization at work using data from the Victim Risk Supplement to the NCVS. See publications 71 and 29 above.

"Should Magistrates Eat at Brennan's", Paper presented at The Southern Sociological Association Meetings, New Orleans, Louisiana, April 10, 1986. Examined the effect of various procedural differences across Federal courts in the processing of habeas petitions and their effect on finding a meritorious petition.

"The Current and Future National Crime Survey", Paper Presented at The Workshop on the Use of Large Data sets in Criminal Justice, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, October 8, 1985. Describe the potential changes in the NCVS resulting from the redesign. See publication 63.

"Why the UCR Diverges from the NCS: The Contribution of Non-Uniformities in Measurement." Paper presented at the Meetings of the American Society of Criminologists, Cincinnati, Ohio, November 8, 1984. This presentation used the divergence of the two major crime trends to present a discussion of the error structure of the two series. See publication 1.

"Cars, Crimes and Crime Statistics: What the UCR Does Not Tell Us But Should." (with Albert D. Biderman), Paper presented at the meetings of the American Society of Criminologists, Cincinnati, Ohio, November 7, 1984. This is a critique of the UCR index crime classification and a proposal for an alternative type of crime classification using the attribute richness of the NCVS.

"Serious Score Dimensions and Other Attributes Affecting Reactions to Victimization." (with Albert D. Biderman), Paper presented at the meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Cincinnati, Ohio, November 8, 1984. This presentation argued that crime scenario methods resulted in under specification of the regression models used to determine seriousness weights. See publication 23.

"Changes in Police Organization and Their Effects on the Divergence of UCR and NCS Trends." Paper presented at the meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Denver, Colorado, November 9, 1983. This presentation demonstrated a link between changes in the social organization of policing and reporting in the UCR. See publication 1 chapter 3 for a fuller treatment of this discussion.

"Recency Bias in the NCS and the Analysis of Outcomes of Victimization Events," Paper presented at the meetings of the American Society of Criminology, Denver, Colorado, November 13, 1983. This paper examines the recency slope in reporting in the NCS and show how recency bias was not correlated with most attributes of victimization events except reporting to the police. See publication 65.

"Understanding the Role of Community in Delinquency Prevention." (with Irving A. Spengel and John Korbelik), Paper presented at the meetings of the American Psychological Association, Los Angeles, August 21, 1981. Examined the effects of community organization on the criminal careers of status offenders. See publication 31.

- e. List all interviews you have given to newspapers, magazines or other publications, or radio or television stations, providing the dates of these interviews and four (4) copies of the clips or transcripts of these interviews where they are available to you.

I have received many calls from reporters requesting comments on crime trends. Using publicly available databases, I found the following references to me and interviews with me in newspapers and other publications. Several of these articles include excerpts from an interview taken from a previous article. Those articles that I recognized as having original interviews are marked "non-redundant."

13. Public Office, Political Activities and Affiliations:

- a. List chronologically any public offices you have held, other than judicial offices, including the terms of service and whether such positions were elected or appointed. If appointed, please include the name of the individual who appointed you. Also, state chronologically any unsuccessful candidacies you have had for elective office or unsuccessful nominations for appointed office.

None.

- b. List all memberships and offices held in and services rendered, whether compensated or not, to any political party or election committee. If you have ever held a position or played a role in a political campaign, identify the particulars of the campaign, including the candidate, dates of the campaign, your title and responsibilities.

None.

14. Legal Career: Answer each part separately.

- a. Describe chronologically your law practice and legal experience after graduation from law school including:
 - i. whether you served as clerk to a judge, and if so, the name of the judge, the court and the dates of the period you were a clerk;

I am not an attorney.

- ii. whether you practiced alone, and if so, the addresses and dates;

I am not an attorney.

- iii. the dates, names and addresses of law firms or offices, companies or governmental agencies with which you have been affiliated, and the nature of your affiliation with each.

Adjunct Professor, School of Public Affairs, American University, paid position, 6/2007.

Distinguished Professor, John Jay College, 899 Tenth Avenue, New York, New York, 10019, paid position, 9/2005 to present

Instructor, Summer Program, Interuniversity Consortium for Political and Social Research, University of Michigan, July and August of every summer from 1994 to 2009.

- iv. whether you served as a mediator or arbitrator in alternative dispute resolution proceedings and, if so, a description of the 10 most significant matters with which you were involved in that capacity.

I am not an attorney.

b. Describe:

- i. the general character of your law practice and indicate by date when its character has changed over the years.

I am not an attorney.

- ii. your typical clients and the areas at each period of your legal career, if any, in which you have specialized.

I am not an attorney.

- c. Describe the percentage of your practice that has been in litigation and whether you appeared in court frequently, occasionally, or not at all. If the frequency of your appearances in court varied, describe such variance, providing dates.

- i. Indicate the percentage of your practice in:
 1. federal courts;
 2. state courts of record;
 3. other courts;
 4. administrative agencies

I am not an attorney.

- ii. Indicate the percentage of your practice in:
 1. civil proceedings;
 2. criminal proceedings.

I am not an attorney.

- d. State the number of cases in courts of record, including cases before administrative law judges, you tried to verdict, judgment or final decision (rather than settled), indicating whether you were sole counsel, chief counsel, or associate counsel.

I am not an attorney.

- i. What percentage of these trials were:
 1. jury;
 2. non-jury.

- e. Describe your practice, if any, before the Supreme Court of the United States. Supply four (4) copies of any briefs, amicus or otherwise, and, if applicable, any oral argument transcripts before the Supreme Court in connection with your practice.

I am not an attorney.

15. Litigation: Describe the ten (10) most significant litigated matters which you personally handled, whether or not you were the attorney of record. Give the citations, if the cases were reported, and the docket number and date if unreported. Give a capsule summary of the substance of each case. Identify the party or parties whom you represented; describe in detail the nature of your participation in the litigation and the final disposition of the case. Also state as to each case:

- a. the date of representation;
- b. the name of the court and the name of the judge or judges before whom the case was litigated; and
- c. the individual name, addresses, and telephone numbers of co-counsel and of principal counsel for each of the other parties.

16. Legal Activities: Describe the most significant legal activities you have pursued, including significant litigation which did not progress to trial or legal matters that did not involve litigation. Describe fully the nature of your participation in these activities. List any client(s) or organization(s) for whom you performed lobbying activities and describe the lobbying activities you performed on behalf of such client(s) or organizations(s). (Note: As to any facts requested in this question, please omit any information protected by the attorney-client privilege.)

I have been interested in national statistics on crime and criminal justice since 1980, and during this period I have been involved in most of the major efforts to build and improve these systems. From 1980 to 1985 I was the project manager for the National Crime Survey (NCS) Redesign. This was a multi-year, multi-million dollar effort to improve the National Crime Survey, one of our two major indicators of crime. This research and development work produced a great deal of knowledge about the survey method as well as a completely redesigned survey that was implemented in 1992. During the same period, I was involved as an advisor in the redesign of the Uniform Crime Report, our second major indicator crime. This work resulted in a blueprint for improving police crime statistics and ultimately the National Incident Based Reporting System (NIBRS) currently administered by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. In 1988, I wrote (with Barbara Allen-Hagan and Susan Lindgren) a plan for improving statistics on juveniles and the juvenile justice. Some years later this plan gave rise to a new system of correctional statistics on juveniles. In 1991, Albert Biderman and I wrote Understanding Crime Incidence Statistics which has become the definitive work on understanding the relative strengths and weakness of survey based indicators of crime and of those based on police administrative records. During the 1990s, I was involved in a variety of activities to improve crime statistics and broaden their use. As chair of the American Statistical Association Committee on Law and Justice Statistics, I developed and administered a small grants program designed to promote research (with emphasis on methodological work) using the data collected by the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) and advised BJS on splicing the old and new designs in the NCS. I was also a member of a committee advising BJS on changes to the National Archive of Criminal Justice Data, the organization managing the dissemination of BJS's data. This committee was instrumental in moving the Archive to a policy of public access to data through the Internet. In this period, I also began a fifteen-year affiliation with the Summer Program at ICPSR during which I trained almost two hundred graduate students and post doctoral students in the use of BJS data to address substantive and methodological issues in crime and criminal justice. This training is necessary because BJS's data collections employ complex samples and file structures that are not typically encountered by social scientists. More recently, I have edited a book with Cambridge University Press that revisits issues addressed in my first book, Understanding Crime Incidence Statistics, and takes account of changes in crime data as well as the nation since the first book appeared. For the last two years I have served on a National Academy Panel to Review the Programs of the Bureau of Justice Statistics. The Panel has produced two volumes that evaluate the current state of our statistical systems on crime and criminal justice and recommend steps to be taken to improve these systems.

17. Teaching: What courses have you taught? For each course, state the title, the institution at which you taught the course, the years in which you taught the course, and describe briefly the subject matter of the course and the major topics taught. If you have a syllabus of each course, provide four (4) copies to the committee.

John Jay College

Advanced Quantitative Methods, Spring 2009, 2007

This course was designed to build upon introductory courses in statistics and quantitative methods for PhD. students. It is designed to introduce the basic tool box for students who want to do quantitative analysis. It begins with advanced topics in OLS regression and goes on to the general linear model (logistic regression and survival analysis), and factor analysis. Lectures cover the theory behind these techniques and the lab sessions teach students how they would employ these techniques using commonly used statistical packages. (See attached syllabus.)

Getting Published, Spring 2005, 2006, 2008

This course is designed to provide advanced graduate students more experience in independent research and in the publication process. The course is limited to students who have a written piece that they believe to be publishable. The course simulates the review process with students presenting their paper to their colleagues. (See attached syllabus)

Crime, Coercion and Community, Fall 2007

This course was designed to provide an overview of criminological theories that purport to explain the distribution of crime across residential neighborhoods. Attention was also given to empirical tests of these theories. The intent was to give graduate students grounding in this theory and the empirical tests of these theories with an eye toward doing original empirical work in this area. (See attached syllabus)

Cross-national Comparisons of Criminal Justice, Fall 2006 (Masters level course)

This course described the criminal justice system in industrialized democracies including the United States. The description was organized around the central dilemma of these systems—balancing their coercive power with restraint in such a way as to preserve the legitimacy of the system among the citizenry. The descriptions are followed by discussions of several common issues confronting all of these systems, e.g. drug crimes, population heterogeneity, to demonstrate how basic institutional arrangements designed to achieve the balance of coercion and restraint influence a system's approach to these specific issues. (See attached syllabus.)

American University

Introduction to the Criminal Justice System—JLS 104

The course provided an introduction to the criminal justice system—police, courts and corrections. This course emphasized the social organization of the various entities performing essential functions in responding to crime and processing criminal cases.

Issues in Criminal Justice—JLS309

This course focused on controversial issues in the criminal justice system and the debates as to how these issues should be addressed.

Policing –JLS 210, 1985

This course described the function of the police in modern society and how it evolved. Specific attention was given to the need for police to balance their coercive power with demonstrations of restraint in order to maintain public support. Alternative strategies for striking that balance were discussed and evaluated.

Survey Research—1987

This course introduced students to the basics of survey research including sampling, instrument construction, administration, data processing and analysis. The class was organized around the fielding and analysis of a survey of AU undergraduates living in dorms.

Introduction to Justice Research—JLS 380, 1986-2005

This course introduced advanced undergraduates to the fundamentals of using empirical evidence to test causal statements. It addressed theory, hypothesis formulation, sampling, measurement, analysis and interpretation of empirical results.

Comparative Systems of Law and Justice—JLS 402

This course was designed to provide advanced undergraduates and graduate students with a cross-national perspective from which to view justice issues in the United States. This perspective enhanced students' ability to understand and to evaluate institutions of social control here in the U.S. Similarities and differences between the U. S. and other nations in terms of crime and responses to crime were used to raise questions about the effectiveness and appropriateness of our institutions and policies.

Research Methods I—JLS 680 (Masters level course)

This course was designed to introduce master's students to the methods for gathering and assessing empirical data in order to test causal statements. There was some discussion of how one establishes causality with empirical evidence. Standard research designs were assessed in terms of their ability to establish the conditions of causality. Issue of sampling and measurement error were also discussed.

Research Methods II—JLS 681(Masters level course)

This is essentially a statistics course in which students are introduced to inferential and descriptive statistics beginning with uni-variate statistics and moving to bi-variate and multi-variate. (See the attached syllabus.)

Justice and Public Policy JLS—610 (masters level course)

This course describes the criminal justice system by identifying a series of topical issues in criminal justice, examining the various approaches to these issues, and explaining why these issues are controversial. These discussions lay bare some of the major beliefs about how the system must be organized and conduct its work. Issues usually become controversial because they hit a seam or an unsettled area where the division of labor between organizations is unclear or contested. This is a much more interesting way to learn about the fundamentals of the system. (See attached syllabus)

Seminar in Justice, Law and Society. JLS-710 (PhD. Counterpart to 610 above)

(See attached syllabus) This is the Ph.D. equivalent of the 610 course above.

Crime and Policy Analysis PUAD 496/596

Introduction to basic empirical research for police administrators in the Key Executive Program. One week course.

ICPSR—University of Michigan

Seminar in the Quantitative Analysis of Criminal Justice Data- Every summer since 1994 for one month.

This course is designed to promote the secondary analysis of the data collected by the Bureau of Justice Statistics and archived by the National Criminal Justice Data Archive (NCJDA). (See the syllabi for the two most recent years)

18. Deferred Income/ Future Benefits: List the sources, amounts and dates of all anticipated receipts from deferred income arrangements, stock, options, uncompleted contracts and other future benefits which you expect to derive from previous business relationships, professional services, firm memberships, former employers, clients or customers. Describe the arrangements you have made to be compensated in the future for any financial or business interest.

I am taking a leave of absence from my position at John Jay College. I will retain my interest in the City University of New York retirement fund, but no further contributions from CUNY or me will be made during my term of service as BJS director.

I have agreements with Cambridge University to receive royalties for two books, Understanding Crime Incidence Statistics: Revisiting the divergence of the NCVS and the UCR and Criminologists on Terrorism and Homeland Security. The amount of royalties cannot be determined at this time.

19. Outside Commitments During Service: Do you have any plans, commitments, or agreements to pursue outside employment, with or without compensation, during your service? If so, explain.

No.

20. Sources of Income: List sources and amounts of all income received during the calendar year preceding your nomination and for the current calendar year, including all salaries, fees, dividends, interest, gifts, rents, royalties, licensing fees, honoraria, and other items exceeding $500 or more (if you prefer to do so, copies of the financial disclosure report, required by the Ethics in Government Act of 1978, may be substituted here).

(See the SF278)

21. Statement of Net Worth: Please complete the attached financial net worth statement in detail (add schedules as called for).

(See the attached net worth statement.)

22. Potential Conflicts of Interest:

- a. Identify the family members or other persons, parties, affiliations, pending and categories of litigation, financial arrangements or other factors that are likely to present potential conflicts-of-interest when you first assume the position to which you have been nominated. Explain how you would address any such conflict if it were to arise.

In connection with the nomination process, I have consulted with the Office of Government Ethics and the Department of Justice's designated agency ethics official to identify potential conflicts of interest. Any potential conflicts of interest will be resolved in accordance with the terms of an ethics agreement that I have entered into with the Department's designated agency ethics official. See also the attached Ethics Agreement.

- b. Explain how you will resolve any potential conflict of interest, including the procedure you will follow in determining these areas of concern.

In connection with the nomination process, I have consulted with the Office of Government Ethics and the Department of Justice's designated agency ethics official to identify potential conflicts of interest. Any potential conflicts of interest will be resolved in accordance with the terms of an ethics agreement that I have entered into with the Department's designated agency ethics official. See also the attached Ethics Agreement.

23. Pro Bono Work: An ethical consideration under Canon 2 of the American Bar Association's Code of Professional Responsibility calls for "every lawyer, regardless of professional prominence or professional workload, to find some time to participate in serving the disadvantaged." Describe what you have done to fulfill these responsibilities, listing specific instances and the amount of time devoted to each. If you are not an attorney, please use this opportunity to report significant charitable and volunteer work you may have done.

I am not an attorney.

I have done the following volunteer work:

Treasurer, Norwood School Parent's Association, 1997-1999. The parent association served as a liaison with the school administration and a vehicle for raising funds to purchase items not provided for in the school's operating budget. The association held a number of fundraising events throughout the year. As treasurer I was responsible for receiving and disbursing funds in preparation for and during these events and for investing the associations cash reserves throughout the year.

Soccer Coach, 1992 to 1998. I coached three teams over the years—one in the DC Stoddert Soccer League and two in Montgomery Soccer Incorporated (MSI) League. The players were 5 years old on the first team and 12 when I retired.

Member of the Board of Directors, For Love of Children (FLOC), Outdoor Education Center, 1992. FLOC is an extremely successful, grassroots organization that provides services to needy children in the District of Columbia. The Outdoor Education Center gives special attention to homeless children. FLOC received funds from a variety of sources including grants and the staff recruited me to help them with grant writing.
